Animal Crossing Action Replay Town Editing Guide by bowsersenemy

NOTE: To jump right to a location, simply copy
the code nearby, press CTRL and F. now, paste
the code into the box, and hit Find.

NOTICE: Some of the information in this guide may now be out of date since acre control has become available. For instance, it IS safe to move your dump, as long as you keep it in a dump acre, and the dump acre is in the A acres. As such, it may well be safe to move things such as the light house.
Sure, you can have as many as you want, but you may be required to keep one in a lighthouse acre. If that's true, then you CAN move it, as long as you move it with your lighthouse acre. Some of these these are untested, so you're welcome to try them, and should something go wrong, simply make a code to reverse it.

WARNING: LABEL YOUR MEMORY CARDS!

I have discovered that some items and all acres stay even if you reset. This may not be the case with every item, but to be sure, I have decided to post one of the questions from the Frequently Asked Questions section, here.

Here's the question as it appears in the FAQS section.

Q: Oops! I put the wrong town in!

A: Relax. There's still hope. Just reset, put the right town in, and start again. Once you're done, check the town you accidentaly had in.
If your town doesn't crash after loading, things are looking good. Go through all the areas you had set to be altered, and if something looks out of place, make another code to fix it.

I can't stress enough how important it is to make sure you use the right town. Mark your memory cards. Also, once you've altered a town, turn the system completely off after saving, as any other town you so much as visit or load will have these effects brought into it.

Also, take note. I finaly added the Cautious items.
Take care when using these.

|What this guide is about. [what]|

This guide was built so that people playing the Gamecube version of Animal Crossing can edit thier towns, with a few exceptions. You can't control the way the river works, or what the acres look like, but you CAN control what's IN the acres. Now, you could do that before, but with problems. Whenever you gave yourself items such as the town message board, your character would recieve letters from Tom Nook, with glitched items. The mail box STAYS full of them, no matter how many times you delete them. This guide shows you how to put items like that directly into your town, without having to worry about the Glitch Letters.

|Version History. [past]|

1.0: Public release on YouTube and Gamefaqs message boards.

1.1: Minor updates, spelling fixes and some FAQS added.

1.2: Major addition: Building sizes were added
so that proper removal and adding new buildings would be easier, also, Action Replay codes added for easier removal and restoration of player houses.

1.3: Officialy submitted to Gamefaqs, and accepted!
Minor spelling fixes and more FAQS, one of which is in regards to the Brutis villager myth, and a link to my video showcasing the ONLY beta villager left in the game.

1.4: A problem has been addressed about removal of items accidentaly put in, or put into the wrong town. However, proper usage of the guide and making sure that the correct memory card used, will ensure minimal to zero glitches, all of which appear to be minor in the worst situations. Also, more FAQS.

1.5: Altered a few things in the guide a bit, fixed some spelling, and added a couple new sections.
Firstly, Mp16 suggested I add the rest of the items.
I took his advice. The rest of the items that I found have been added. Well, those that haven't proven dangerous. Warnings have been added on these.
Also, I have added a Custom Town Videos section. Now you can make a custom town, record a video of it, upload it to the internet and I'll post the link here.
Just give me the link. That's all. Gamecube towns only,
and no downloads.

1.6: Rocks have been added to the list of available items. Just don't use too many, or you'll end up with the burried weeds glitch. Not dangerous, but you don't want to see a dig spot, only to find it to be a weed. Also, yet another new section. This one, will hold the findings of Mp16, another Animal Crossing researcher that is on Gamefaqs. He's done some extensive testing, so check that section out.

2.0: The Videos section was removed due to no videos being submitted, but I replaced it with the Acre Hacking section. An all around better section anyway, right? Also included is a villager hacking section and a player name hacking section.

2.1: Thanks goes to bmsortiz of Youtube who pointed out that I had the wrong addresses for the villagers! Upon converting them to 16 bit overwrite, I forgot to change the address to match! They're fine now though. Also included this time, is PAL hacking, and limited town name hacking.

|Frequently Asked Questions. [faqs]|

Q: Can I make a code and use it on any town?

A: No, that won't work. It's rare that two towns would look alike, and besides, each code must be built arround one towns design. If used on another town, the items would be in the wrong places and look strange, or worse, crash the town.

Q: My Action Replay says that the code has already been entered!

A: All you have to do, is reencrypt the code again, and put the new one in. Keep doing this untill the AR accepts the code. I'll go into more detail in the GCNcrypt section.

Q: My Action Replay says I used an invalid code!

A: Go back over the code, and make sure you put it in right. If you did, make sure you put the right game ID in GCNcrypt, and reencrypt the code. Animal Crossing's ID is 0A9 in the U.S. You MUST put that into GCNcrypt before anything else, or NONE of the codes will work.

Q: Oops! I put the wrong town in!

A: Relax. There's still hope. Just reset, put the right town in, and start again. Once you're done, check the town you accidentaly had in. If your town doesn't crash after loading, things are looking good. Go through all the areas you had set to be altered, and if something looks out of place, make another code to fix it. I can't stress enough how important it is to make sure you use the right town. Mark your memory cards. Also, once you've altered a town, turn the system completely off after saving, as any other town you so much as visit or load will have these effects brought into it.

Q: Does it matter which character I start as?

A: No. Any character will work fine.

Q: If I have a different Nook store, and I put Nook 'n' Go in my town, will it be open late?

A: Sadly, no. No matter how many different Nook stores you have in one town, they will all match the hours of your current store.

Q: Ok, so can I stop Nook from upgrading?

A: Again, sadly, no. Buying anything from any store you may add would help your main store to upgade.

Q: Can I have more than one of a particular item in my town at a time?

A: Yes. Just don't get too many items in one acre. That seems to cause problems.

Q: Can each flag in my town have it's own design?

A: Unfortunatly, all flags will have the same design on them. Change one, and ALL others will change to match it. Even the one on the Island.

Q: Is it safe to go to my island? I haven't named it yet!

A: Yes. It's perfectly safe. When a character is supposed to mention the Island's name, they just show nothing instead. Nothing to worry about. Also, as a bonus for doing it this way, your island will now match the current season! Some may not like this, due to not being able to catch summer fish/bugs in the middle of winter.

Q: I walked into my Islander's house, and they had all kinds of furniture!

A: This happens only the first time you walk into your Islanders house if you didn't get there by the Game Boy Advance. It's normal. Walk back in, and they'll be normal.

Q: Hey! I put something in my town, but I can't see it! What gives here?

A: What most likely happened, is you put too many "special" items in the same acre. Only so many of these types of items can appear at once for some reason. I don't recomend leaving them there, so if you haven't saved yet, turn the game off without saving, or if you HAVE saved already, just remake the same code, but in place of the items that are invisible, use 0000 instead. This causes no problems that I have seen, but just incase, I do recomend removing invisible items.

Q: I've heard tell of a glitch villager named Brutis/Brutus/Rufus, is he real?

A: Based on what I've seen in the game, no.

I've heard tell of it possibly being a form of the well known villager fusion glitch, but from what I've read, usualy the glitch villager's house is supposed to force the game to reset, and that's never mentioned with the villager fusion glitch. The only way that should happen is if the villager doesn't have a pre set house. That would mean that the villager should be in the registered villagers lists. I've been through both lists and haven't seen anything like him. This isn't related to the guide, but I thought it was worth mentioning, due to the repeated mentions of him. There IS a beta villager though. Since I haven't been able to find a name for her, and since she looks like both Bliss, and Hazel, I've named her Blazel. Here's a video showing her off. She's near the end of it.

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=7WfD40J2UFY

Q: Are there any Beta items?

A: Yes. Yes there is. So far, I've only found one, but it's a monster. A paper airplane. Now, what sounds so monstrous about that? Easy. Nintendo had decided to play arround with it a bit for some reason, and never finished. Place this thing in your town, and it will spread itself given enough time. It will slowly shut down each acre it fills. Once it reaches the edge of an acre, it will spread to the next one. I have dubbed it The Animal Crossing Virus. It IS curable, but if it spreads to another acre, it can be a pain. I will get a video up showing it, but I'll do that later. For safety, I will not release it's item number, as it is a true town corruption item.

Q: I saved with a Beta Acre in my town!

A: No cause for alarm. Just replace it with another acre. The worst that will happen, is your game will reset every time you open the map, but that's fixed when you change it back to a normal acre.

Q: RRRGH! I HATE THIS VILLAGER! Can I make them move?

A: Believe me, I wish I could help, but I tried making a code for the Action Replay that removes a villager, and instead I corrupted my town! Now it won't even load! I have to make another code to fix it. Sorry, but for everyones (and mine) safety, I won't even work on another villager removal code. Now, what you CAN do, is change the villager to one you like better. See the villager hacking section for more on this.

Q: Can my name be more than 8 characters?

A: No, sorry. 8 is the most you can use. I'ts not my fault, that's just the way it is.

Q: Can I change my town name?

A: No. I wish that would have worked, but I never was able to pinpoint the origin of the town name. I know there has to be one point that all these sections read from, but I can't find that source. If that was a bit to technical, then let me just say, I can't find it.

Q: Will changing my name cause me to have trouble using passwords made for me?

A: As far as I can tell, just use your new name when having passwords made for you. To be safe though, you can have them made in your old name too. If you want to test it though, there's password generators out there that should be able to help you test it. One I can recomend is acuc.multiverseworks.com/acuc that's the online one made by garycxjk. It's based off of Mooglyguy's code generator.

Q: Can I have (villager) talk like (villager)?

A: Yes! This was a feature I thought was cool. You can make any villager sound any way you want! Unfortunately, if they ever move, they will return to thier normal voice and attitude.

Q: Can I have more than one of the same villager?

A: I've never tested it, but from experience, I don't see where it would be dangerous, but to be sure, I'd test it out in another town first.

Q: Can I make (villager) have (villager)'s house?

A: No. Each villager has a set house, and if they have someone elses house, it causes a glitch. If you go into ANY house, the game will reset. This is fixed, when thier house is fixed. A villagers house, is the same as the villager though. For instance, say you set a villager to E034. You would have to find thier house, and change it to 5034. Yeah, the first letter is different, but everything else is the same.

Q: Ok, so does that mean that I can give Nook or "Blazel" a house of thier own?

A: No. Those aren't meant to be villagers, so they don't have a set house, thus causing the glitch no matter what. I only included them for fun. You may have to change them back to a normal villager once you're done with them, even if you reset the game.

Q: Can I use your guide on my site?

A: Ask me first, but if I don't respond, then go ahead and put it up. But give credit for it and don't change anything in it.

|What you need. [need]|

You will need a couple of things before you can do this. Don't worry, all you'll need to buy, is the Action Replay.

Action Replay [a.r.]

This is the most important piece. Without this item, this guide is useless to you. It usualy cost's about $30 in America, new, so it's not bad on the price. NOTICE! This will not work on a Wii! The Wii locks all Action Replays that use unnoficial codes, and the only GCN Action

Replay that will work with the Wii doesn't allow custom codes! Please make sure you are buying the right Action Replay!

GCNcrypt [code]

GCNcrypt is used to put codes into a format so that the Action Replay can use them. The codes you will be making with this guide are called "Unencrypted". You need GCNcrypt to put them together. As for where to find it, you can download it here:

http://kikiki1b.googlepages.com/GCNcrypt-v1_5.zip

If this is for some reason no longer working, notify me if possible and look for the program
on a search engine.

Here's how to use it with this guide.

Step 1: Get your code put together.

Step 2: Open GCNcrypt, and in the bottom left corner, you will see the Game ID box. Put 0A9 in it. That's Animal Crossing's ID number for the U.S.

Step 3: Copy and Paste your code into GCNcrypt, and press Encrypt. Notice that the code on the left is one line longer. It's supposed to do that.

Step 4: Put the whole code on the right side into your Action Replay.

Step 5: Use the code, and MAKE SURE YOU HAVE THE RIGHT CARD IN. Now, come out as any character, and then save and quit. Turn off the gamecube, so if you time travel, or visit another town, there will be no odd effects, and you're done!

|How to use this guide. [how2]|

I strongly recomend reading this section before going head first into editing your town because you may do something, and have a mess to clean up.

First, you need to understand this. When you put an item down, it will fall to one spot.
There are 255 spots in each acre. Even the spots in the river, and above the fences.
Another thing to realize, is that there are 16 spots going from left to right, and 16 spots going from top to bottom in each acre.
This is how you will judge where you want an item to go in your town, and how to remove things from your town. I made an acre outline and put quick access points so you can jump between spots, and the outline to tell what would end up where. It's up to you to make sure whatever you put down doesn't end up in the water, unless you wanted it there. I'll explain how to fix mistakes and remove things later. An important tip though, another good idea for figuring out what will go where, place items and dig holes in the acre. It helps more than you think.

Here is how you put an item in your town.

This line will edit the very top left corner of A-1.

1-1 03279BA8 0000xxxx

Now, you can't use it like that, so try this.

03279BA8 00001DEC

That can be put into GCNcrypt. It will put Super Mario Bros. in the top left corner of A-1. I wouldn't recomend putting it there though. You can't reach it for the fences.

Take the Acre Map and notice that I've named all of the spots in the acres. Use that to

-----------------------------
|How to remove items. [cya!]|
-----------------------------

Now that you know how to put an item IN your town, let me teach you how to REMOVE them.

Here's the same code as before.

03279BA8 00001DEC

Let's change that, shall we?

03279BA8 00000000

see the difference? If you replace the xxxx in a code line with 0000 and use it, it will REMOVE whatever is in that spot. The line above, will remove whatever is in the top left corner of A-1.

Now, alot of the time, items are far larger than just one spot. If you remove say, the Post Office, with just one line, it will be gone, yes, but it leaves what I call it's "foundation". Blank spots that were put there for some reason. You can't dig there, unless you erase those blank spots with a removal code. I will go into more detail about what will need to be removed in Building sizes.
that way you can have a clean spot.

Now, don't missunderstand this. You can put a new building down, and not have to worry about adding a foundation. Same goes for removing a building you put down. There is no foundation placed when YOU put a building somewhere, so if you want to remove a building you put down, just use the same line as before, but with all zeros on the right half.

|Do's and Dont's. [oops]|

You're going to have to be carefull with this guide. I decided to add certain items that can cause problems. I had put an Igloo in my town, walked inside to find no one there, walked out, and the igloo was gone with a sign in it's spot. Sometimes, it stays. I dedided to include this item and others like it. Just be very careful when adding items from that section.

Do's

It's completely safe to remove any player houses that you don't want. I have even made codes for this already. Even codes that restore the houses if you change your mind. Just make sure no one's living there.

It's also safe to remove the Message board and Map boards, but if you create a new character, you will need a Message board.

You can remove the lily pads from the pond so that you can see to fish as well. In fact, if you place it right, you can even put a bridge at the end of the fishing pier to extend your fishing range. Be carefull though, if there is anything blocking a river route to the ocean, don't do it. If you fall into the Pond, the only way back on dry land is the beach!

One cool thing to do is put a bridge in one of your F acres, so that you can walk off of it and to your island. Careful again though, don't bring up your map until you're on the main land. You could reset your game.

It's completely safe to remove the Museum! I know it sounds strange, but it's true! You don't have to keep it! Ditch it if you don't like it, or move it if you want it elsewhere. for that matter, have as many Museums as you want!

Same goes for the Post Office. You can move, or remove, it, with one minor glitch. When you send five letters, and walk outside, after having moved the post office, Postman Pete will not fly off with the letters. You can go back in though, and send even more letters.

You can move and remove, the Able Sisters too. Personaly, I recomend replacing them with one of Tom Nook's stores, so that you can go fising and have a quick sale stop. Nook's Cranny is good because it's small and not as much in the way as the larger stores.

You can safely remove Nook's store, but only once it's become Nookington's. If you remove it before it's finished upgrading, it could cause trouble. There's a possibility that the upgrading proccess relies on the previous store actualy being where it should be. That's why I recomend leaving it alone untill it becomes Nookington's.

NOTE:

some people seem to have trouble understanding how to even get Nookingtons, so I thought I'd explain it here.

First, you start out with Nook's Cranny. That upgrades to Nook 'n' Go, then becomes Nookway. Once you have Nookway, it's going to take more than just a load of cash, (and I do mean a load of cash,) you're also going to need someone from another town to come in and buy something from Nookway. Give it some time, and eventualy, you will have Nookington's.

Don'ts

Don't put signs or anything at all arround your houses until all characters intended to be made are in there, because Nook needs a way to walk out of the acre, and If he doesn't have one, the game will basicly be locked.

Never remove villager houses!

Only move signs if you intend to put another one somewhere else. Keep track of these.

NOTE:

Thanks to Mp16 for this. There can only be 8 signs per acre.

Never remove the Wishing Well!

TAKE CAUTION WITH THE DUMP! Mp16 has discovered that you can safely move the dump, as long as you keep it in the A acres and it also has to be placed in a Dump acre, so if you want to move your dump, make one of the A acres a dump acre and move it there.

Don't try to look for Acre F-5. I purposly left it out. Some call it the Action Replay Glitch Acre, with good reason.

Never remove the Town Tune board. I did this once, and every time I ran over the spot it was in, my character seemed to jump over the spot as if something was there. I recomend leaving this one here. Seems safe to put more down though.

Never remove your Lighthouse. This could be bad. If you ever deal with a River meets Ocean acre, you should put a lighthouse in it. you can also put lighthouses anywhere else in town you want.

Also, never remove your Clock Tower, unless you keep it with your train station, and read the one below too.

If you're going to move your housing acre, either keep it right underneath the train station, unless you don't intend to make any new players.

A little info about the Fences. You can safely remove, move, or replace them, but don't leave them gone long. If you walk up where they should be, you will become stuck, with no way out.

The police station should be safe to move as long as you put it in another police station acre.

When making a new town, you must include one of each main acre. For instance, you must have a Player Houses acre, a Police acre, a Dump acre (A acres only), etc.

About Gyroids. If you decide to place your Gyroid somewhere, I must warn you, DO NOT SAVE with the new Gyroid. It won't always work. I recomend going back to your house and using that Gyroid like you have been. It's the safest way to do it.

I don't think anyone will actualy do this, but just to be safe, don't remove a house that you or another player lives in. It's a cruel and dangerous joke.

This one is a big one. DO NOT place bridges until AFTER Tortimer puts one in for you. The reason why, is that it's required in the game for Tortimer to do that, and if you already have all of the pre set locations covered with bridges, you have a problem. For the record, Tortimer will do this some time after you get 15 villagers.

Lastly, don't fill an acre with too many things. It's not good. For Instance, too many Flags, or too many Waterfalls. It's not good for the acre, and sometimes, the extra items won't appear. Feel free to spread them throughout your town though.

|Known Glitches. [huh?]|

From what I've seen, there are only two glitches that come from SAFE editing of your town. First, when I say, "safe editing", I mean making your town safe to play in. For instance, leaving a gap in your fences, or puting a bridge somewhere you can walk off without a clear path to the ocean. That's not safe. Anyway, here they are. Also, for the record, these seem to have no ill effects.

Missing Postman (safe)

I mentioned this elsewhere, but it's worth repeating. When the post office is moved to an acre other than a Post Office acre, Pete will no longer fly away when you mail five letters. You can go back in and mail more though.

Burried Weeds (safe)

Also, don't fill an acre with too many fences or rocks. Why? I have an acre that suffers from a comical glitch. I sometimes get weeds, that are BURRIED! they look like a normal dig spot, but when you dig it, you see a weed fly out! It only happens in that particular acre though. Probably due to the ammount of signs I have in it. They were rocks, but I later changed them to signs.

House Reset (not safe, but fixable)

As it turns out, if you put a villager that doesn't have a preset house of thier own into your town, ALL, I repeat A L L houses in your town will reset when you walk into them. The same goes if you change a villager, but forget to change thier house to match the new villager. Also, failing to "rematch" the house, may result in the house being a different/odd color, which is the only cool part about it. However, it's a pretty easy fix. Just put the same villager back, or, just change the house to match.

|European (PAL) hacking. [PALH]|

If you're in this section, that means that you either have a save editing device, or you have the European, or PAL as it's sometimes called, version of the game. Well then I have good news! You can still hack your town! All you have to do is apply these offsets to each line of code you will be using before you put it into your Action Replay, or save file. However, the PAL version also has a different Game ID, but that's listed below, so no need to worry about finding it.

European Offset: SUBTRACT 16E6A0 from each line of code

European Game ID: 1F9 Place this in GCNrd first

|Town Hacking. [town]|

Ah, time to get to the good parts, eh? Let's get started here! First, you need to familiarize yourself with the Acre Map, and look over the list of available items so you know what you can and can't use. If you don't see an item you're wanting, it's either due to the fact that it can't be gotten, or the fact that I haven't included it because of it being dangerous.

|Remove/Restore House Codes. [home]|

Like I said before, it's safe to remove the player houses, and put things in thier place. If you change your mind though, you can always put the houses back. To make this part easier, I already made the codes for you.

|Building sizes. [size]|

If you're looking to remove a building that was already in your town, or add a new one, you will need to look here for it's size. Outside of the Player houses, there's only realy 4 buildings that are safe to touch. X represents the building, and if you are removing, get rid of everything there. The other letters represent the Item Number. In other words, that's the "center" of the building. That's where the Item Number is in the building. That is to say, if you place a building down, all of the Xes will be arround the spot you placed the building. I hope I was able to make this clear enough for everyone.

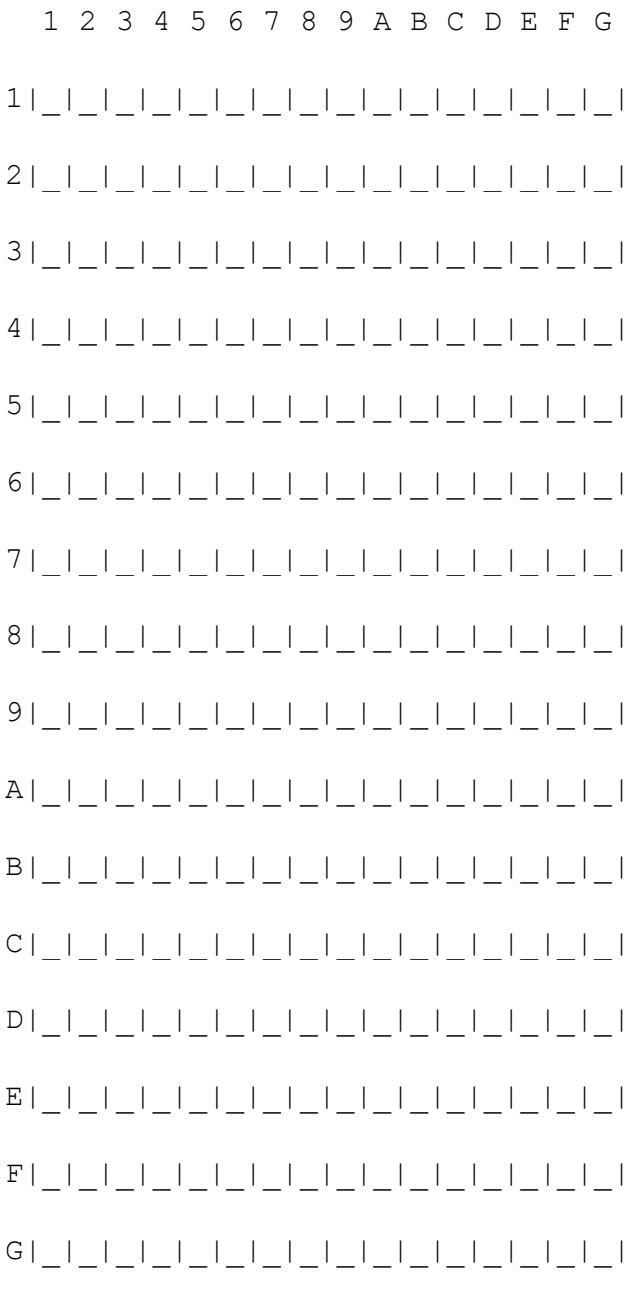
only, zoomed in to one acre. Since all acres are the same size (yes, the A acres are the same size as the B acres. The acre goes above the fences!) I have only made a general map. Now, how you get to the specific acre you want, is to use the acre list. If you want to jump back here quickly, copy the acre name, press CTRL and F at the same time, paste the acre name in the box, and press find. You will jump here instantly. You can do this also to jump back to this section. Same goes for the item list.



|Various Cool Info. [info]|

All information and findings in this section are credit to Mp16 of the Gamefaqs Animal Crossing forums, unless otherwise stated. These are mostly copy and pastes from emails exchanged between us (permision given) with minor edits.

Islander houses and other island finds

The island is always in the same acres.

There's absolutely no major glitches that occur when you put an Islander's home in your town (at least by dropping it from your pockets that is). However, I had visited and named by island before. There's only two very minor bugs that happen with the islander's house.

The furniture instead can't be changed even if you give the Islander items. It's kind of like a villager's house, the furniture never changes.

Sometimes a weed will appear around the fence part of the house. They can all be picked except when one is in front of the "sign" part.

Also, not really a glitch, but the Islander never leaves its house.

Also, I attempted to get a villager to live on the island, but even with it being the last available sign in the town, a villager will not live there. However, special characters such as Summer Campers, Katrina, Gracie, etc. all use the sign. It's actually really cool. Especially the summer campers.

And I tested saving the island when Crazy Redd was there onto the GBA.
Nothing happened. The island on the GBA didn't even recognize Crazy Redd was there. No garbage tiles, nothing. Oh well.

Another really interesting thing is when you ask Copper about any goings-ons and a special character is using the sign on the island, Copper will say they're in acre i-4 or acre i-5. If you follow the pattern of the acres, the island should be acre H.

NOTE: Bowsersenemy here. Why it's not called H-4 or H-5, is this. The game stores it's letters or "font" in memory, with what looks like a lower case i being the very first on the list, or 00 in hex. Sometimes if there is no name given for an item, it's name is simply listed with whatever the first thing on the list is. So in this case, the island is in what the game calls Acre i, when like Mp16 said, it should be Acre H. Now, back to Mp16's findings.

For one, it's perfectly safe to place Kapp'n's boat anywhere. In fact, if you make a dock, (I assume he means bridges) and plug in your GBA, he'll even take you to the island no matter where he is! It's really amazing. When I first tried this, I put him in acre F-2 and I thought he would just boat his way into the glitch ocean acre and the game would reset. But instead, he boated horizontal for a long time and eventually made a curve into the Island dock! Unfortunately, his boat was too crooked to realign properly into the dock and the game made an infinite unescapable loop of Kapp'n trying to pull into the dock. I'm sure if Kapp'n didn't have to make such a wide turn, he would pull in just fine. Possibly acre F-4. So if your acre F-5 becomes glitches, you can still use Kapp'n to get to the Island! And another thing: Kapp'n won't disappear even after saving and quitting and turning off the console!

Signs and Villagers and Visitors

Whenever you place multiple signs in an acre, they'll all say the same thing (mine was the wisdom of fishing tip). Once the sign gets occupied, this bug will get corrected and a random tip will be replaced with the wisdom of fishing one.

There can be 9 signs in each acre. If you add more than 9 signs to an acre, the sign furthest down and too the left of the acre will become hidden. This is exactly what happens with the hidden items glitch. Pretty interesting.

NOTE: B.E. again. The Hidden items Glitch is something Mp16 found. It involves special placement of items in your house, running, and droping a table at a specific point, and ending up on top of a table. It allows for more items to be placed, thus boosting your HRA score to nearly limitless heights. He Currently holds the World Record HRA score because of this.

Back to Mp16.

When four villagers all live in one acre, all four names are displayed on the map like they normally should. However, only 1, 2 or 3 mini-houses appear on the map. For some reason, the number of houses that appear on the map isn't based on the number of original signs in the acre. One of the acres I put 9 signs in originally had 3 signs in it, but on the map, only one house is displayed when four villagers all live in that acre.

Once you reach Five+ villagers in an acre, then there are a few different very minor glitches. The map removes all the mini-houses in that particular acre, and no names are displayed on the map. However, the text box is slightly expanded as if there is one invisible name. Everything in the actual acre works fine though. All five+ villagers can be out at once and it's fine.

Of course, when you first enter the acre, sometimes some houses don't load immediately due to too many things in one acre. Other than that, it's perfectly safe to have 5+ villagers in a given acre!

After finally reaching the max of 9 villagers in an acre, there are some new glitches. For one, 1 or 2 of the villagers will always "Be Out" except the first time you meet them. In other words, after you've met them, they never appear again. However, they can move away.

Another fairly weird thing happened twice to me. When I had 7 villagers all in one acre, my game randomly froze when I was in the acre. Then when I had the full 9, my game froze upon entering the acre. However, it's not like what happens when you enter a messed up acre F-5. The screen doesn't go black and reset. Instead, the game stops everything that's going on, meaning you can't move and none of the buttons/controls on the controller do anything, but the music keeps playing. I don't know what happens if you wait for a new hour to appear, but I'm guessing time freezes as well and the new hour won't come. I'm able to enter a 9 villager acre just fine the majority of the time. It's more of a caution that the game CAN freeze due to too much stuff in one acre.

There are some cautions I should mention though. Never put a sign on the very edge of an acre. When a villager tries to move in where that sign is, a house won't be built, but the villager will still live there. So far, I haven't seen any corruption, but it just means a villager will live in your town, but won't have a house. Another interesting thing is you only occasionally see that villager. When you enter a building a leave (or go too far away), the villager will disappear and won't reappear for a while. It's pretty annoying since it basically lowers your max limit of villagers to 14. I removed the sign where the house would be, and the villager still lived there and acted like a house was still there. The villager will eventually move away.

And another caution is, if the sign is even two spots away from another acre there are potential minor problems. Once a villager lives there, the house will be unloaded until you enter the acre. (meaning you can't see it from other acres until you enter the acre it's in.) And if you enter the acre when the house is unloaded where the house will appear, you sometimes get pushed back to the acre you were in, and almost everything in the acre you got pushed back into will be unloaded. Nothing bad happens, it's just annoying. Other times, you'll just go on top of the house.

Interestingly, if you put rope bridges by the house and lead it towards the train tracks, you can get on top of the house and walk across the rope bridges over the train tracks! So there is another method of getting onto the train tracks without jumping or "treeing".

NOTE: Bowsersenemy again. "treeing" is a term I made up. It refers to standing still near an object, and droping a Tree from out of your pockets. You will end up standing on the tree, and usualy being able to walk onto whatever you were standing near. I'd explain the jumping, but if you're reading this, you most likely have an Action Replay, and therefore most likely know what we mean.
Back to Mp16.

And here's a cool little thing I discovered.
If you put a sign in an acre that a sign isn't supposed to be (such as Nook's Shop, the Post Office, etc.) and a villager moves in, some cool minor glitches happen. For one, the name of the villager (on the map) takes over the name of the Name of the special acre. (In my case, Nookway is replaced with Static, the squirrel villager) Secondly, a mini-house is actually placed on the map.
For Nook's acre, the house is placed above the fence on the left side and extends past the actual map. It's pretty cool! And if more than one villager moves in to one of these acres, no additional mini-houses are placed on the map.

|Items. [item]|

Please note, it is recomended that you don't use a code that puts these items directly in your pockets.
If you do, you will recieve glitched items in the mail constantly. I don't know why that happens, but it's one reason I created this guide.
So people can edit thier towns, without worrying about that glitch. Please notice items 000B, 000D, and 000F. They all say Place one spot left of (some board). When I say that, I mean just that.

They are basicly the left half of that board!
So, don't stick them to the left of the WHOLE board, just one to the left of the ITEM NUMBER.

At the suggestion of Mp16, I have decided to make some codes that will put Signs in your pockets. One code for each player in the town.
I must warn you though, it will cause that player and that player only, to recieve Glitch Letters from Tom Nook. An endless supply of them. Of course, all you have to do, is delete that player, and make a new one (optional). The reason I'm inlcuding these, is that it makes it easier to add signs this way, and it's the ONLY way to get them on your island.

A quote from Mp16:

As long as there's nothing in your way, when you drop them, they will drop right under you. So the best way to make sure they go where you want them to is to dig a hole, refill it, and stand directly on top of where the hole was.

NOTE: Empty your pockets before using these codes!

|Cautious Items. [care]|
------------------------

Take special cautions using these items.
Most of these aren't permanent, and will eventualy leave. The problem with those items, is that they usualy leave a Sign behind. Now, I DID include the Dump, but if you intend to test it out, I recomend you do so on a town you don't want to keep.
Just don't remove your main dump. That I KNOW is dangerous. Use these items at your own risk but don't say you weren't warned. Just be safe and test them in another town first. If an item does no damage, let me know. I'll move it to the safe items.

To test these, put them in a town you don't care for, and then save and quit. Come back on, and if everything is fine, you're good to go. Let me know what's cool and what's not, and like said, i'll move it to the safe section, or leave it here with explanations. It depends on what does what.

New data suggests that it would be safe to included some of these items in your town, as long as you put them in acres that they are supposed to go in. For instance, it is safe to place a dump in your town, as long as it's in a Dump acre, and that dump acre is in the A acres.

|Acre Hacking.[acre]|

The part you've all been waiting for! Acre Control!

|How to hack acres.[inst]|

The first thing you should know, is never place a second dump acre. They may be hazardous. you'll just have to settle for a dump acre in the A acres. Now, you can create towns over and over until you find one that has the dump in the A acre you want, but it will never be in A-3. That being said, there are other things you should know. Never mess with the outer acres, unless you're just adding an acre that should go there anyway. You'll see what I mean later. And as for what I mean by outer acres, I mean the ones that you can't normaly walk in.
It may very well be safe to modify the ocean acres into normal acres, but one thing you should definetly know, is that if you do, you can't place items, trees, signs, ANYTHING in them. they'll just be empty. Of course, that can be a good or bad thing, all depending on how you look at it. I would venture to say you couldn't dig in them either. You probably can if you replace the Island with normal acres though.
I will admit, at the time of this writing, there are things not yet tested, but they will be, and added to the guide later. Untill then,
I will simply place these untested things as "Do at your own risk", with instructions on how to fix things if something goes wrong.
One more thing. Be careful of your villagers locations. They may end up half on a cliff, or in the middle of a pond (which is funny).
They may eventualy move, but other than that, nothing can be done about the ones already there. But what you CAN do, is control where the new villagers move to. Place signs anywhere you want them to move to. Now, understand that special visitors can pop up on those signs just as well as a new villager.

|The Real Town Map.[mapy]|

You're probably thinking, "Huh? you mean there's two?". No. There isn't. It's just that you've never seen the full version of what's already there. See, If you've ever used the Jump code on your Action Replay, then you already know that there are other acres outside of the normal ones. Like the one that leads to the start of the town's river, and the empty ocean acres that surround the Island.
Those are part of what is called the Real Town Map. Why are they? Simple. You can edit them. Now, you can't put things in them, but you can at least change them to look the way you want. Even your island. Yes, you can customize your island. I'd go with caution there though, remember, you do have an islander to think of. Thing is, I realy don't know if it would be safe to move thier house. It could be, they don't have the same coding as villagers. Anyway, here is the REAL town map.

0-0 0-1 0-2 0-3 0-4 0-5 0-A

A-0 A-1 A-2 A-3 A-4 A-5 A-A

B-0 B-1 B-2 B-3 B-4 B-5 B-A

C-0 C-1 C-2 C-3 C-4 C-5 C-A

D-0 D-1 D-2 D-3 D-4 D-5 D-A

E-0 E-1 E-2 E-3 E-4 E-5 E-A

F-0 F-1 F-2 F-3 F-4 F-5 F-A

9-0 9-1 9-2 9-3 9-4 9-5 9-A

There you have it ladies and gentlemen, the complete town map. Rather large, no? The full thing is 7X10. 8-4 and 8-5 are your Island.

|Acres.[dirt]|

Ah, the real good part. Now, alot of these have pictures with them so you can tell what the look like on the map. I'm sorry, but pictures of what each acre looks like up close would be way to complex. The pictures were provided by Mp16. Not to mention quite a few of the acres themselves. He helped me search through them.

You should use the pictures listed near the acres to get an idea of how to line up your town. If the lines match up with these pictues, they'll match up in your town, and map.

Also, some of you may be wondering about different heights of acres, and how to make multi layered towns. Easy. First, these acres are set at the lowest setting, just like the beach acres of EVERY town are. If you want them raised, just add one to the last digit of the acre. There are four levels for each acre.

Lowest : Always the lowest acres in your town. Includes beach.
Medium : These are the top layer in two layer (most) towns.
High : These are the top layer in three layer towns.
Highest: These are rarely to never used, but appear to be safe.

From the desk of: Mp16

[left] and [right] refers to which way the river flows or on which side the cliff is. This only applies to horizontal rivers and vertical cliffs.

Anything in parenthesis means they are duplicates of each other.

I put an asterisk (*) over the coolest looking acres
(in my opinion of course)

Bowsersenemy here. Mp16 wrote the corruption thing, and he tested all of these acres to get the pictures.
Since I never tried these particular acres myself, I don't realy know what he means about the corruption thing. If you're that desperate to move your dump, try these on a test town first.

|Villager Hacking. [vill]|

Got a villager you don't like? We all seem to. Well, I can't help you make them move, (believe me, I've tried) but I CAN help you change them to your liking, wether it be changing the villager entirely, or just changing thier attitude and even gender.

To figure out what villager to hack, make sure you've spoken with them all. Now, get a piece of paper, and start to write a letter. See the Mailing list full of villagers? They go by numbers. That's how you find out the number each villager is. There is one thing however. Should a villager move out, I don't know if the villagers underneath of it would change numbers or not, so your best bet is to either hack the villagers before one moves out, or hack them when you have exactly fifteen.

This second method is by JasonHaffner.

Another method of villager hacking, uses a second town, or a "junk" town, as I call it. This is why I recomend hacking a new town, and not an existing town. Get your sign boards set where you want the villagers to move, and remove the ones that are where you DON'T want the villagers. You can add more signs later for special visitors. Now, use the "All Villagers Are XX" code on the "junk" town, with the villager you want. Now take a trip to your hacked town, and it's guaranteed that the villager you want will move into it! Repeat this until you have the desired villagers. This takes more time, but is actually safer, and allows for a more custom villager placement. You may need to do some working to get the villagers gone that are already in places you don't want them, but you'd have to do that with either method.

-------------------------------
|The Housing Situation. [hows]|
-------------------------------

NOTE: If you used JasonHaffner's method to get your villagers, you don't need this section, since the villager will move with the right house automaticaly

Something you need to know, is that villagers have preset housses. Meaning, that in order to work right, you have to change the house of the villager you're changing, to match the villager you're changing them to. For instance, say you change a villager to E045. You would need to find thier house, and change it to 5045. Notice the only difference? the E and the 5. the rest is the same. So to find out a villager's house, just change the E in thier name, to a 5.

You will need to find the location of the house though, which isn't hard. Just look at your town map.
Head there, and measure the acre just as you would
if you were adding something else from this guide, and replace the house's number, with the new number.
Here's a small diagram of the spot you should replace.

Villager House

Replace H with the new number

  XXX

Like said, the new number is the same as the new villager except you change the E to a 5. I think you can guess that Nook and the rest of the special villagers don't have a house of thier own, so therefore you can't have them as a normal villager. They cause a glitch that doesn't let you enter any house without the game locking up. I included them however, for fun. I recomend changing them back once you're done, unless you don't plan to keep the town, or you don't care if you go in houses or not. Needless to say, Islanders can cause the same problems, because all islanders share the same house. However, it is untested what would happen if you were to replace a villager and thier house with an islander and the islander house item.
It might work.

--------------------
|Attitudes. [atit]|
--------------------

Ah, the good part. If you're changing a villager, you might want to change thier attitude with them to match.
Or not. Want that grouchy villager to talk like a girl?
Go right ahead! There are no known glitches that happen from doing it! From what I can tell, it's safe! There is one thing you should know though. The villagers will change back to normal if they move to another town.

There's other guides that tell you how villagers should act and how they shouldn't, so I won't bother listing that here. But I'll say this. Guides are based on oppinions as well. Some may think there is more than 6 different attitudes that villagers can have. That is false. I've investigated it and there are only 6 different attitudes that villagers can have. Everything after those are either special, or glitches. So when looking for a guide that has villager attitudes, you'll want one that uses the 6 attitude guideline. 3 for female villagers, and 3 for male villagers. Islander attitudes are untested as of this writing. They're a bit harder to discern than the villagers...

If you used JasonHaffners method to get you're villagers, you won't need this section. But it's still fun to mess with thier attitudes.

|The Villagers. [vily]|

Here's the villagers. Use a little caution when messing with Punchy. For some reason, he comes after the islanders, and since the islanders don't have homes like normal villagers, I don't know if his house matches his number or if it comes right after Cookies'. You'll see a warning near his name. Credit for most all of these goes to jgmorford and JasonHaffner.

If you used JasonHaffners method to get you're villagers,
you won't need this section.

|Fun Characters. [haha]|

These villagers cause a glitch that makes the game reset if you go into any house at all. Just replace them with a normal villager to fix it. I only included these for fun.

Some of these have messed up names. That's because they have no names at all. The ones that don't have the messed up names (E100 and up) have names of normal villagers. I'd go into detail, but let's just call it a loop, shall we?

Some of these (E0EC to E0FF) were found by Jasonhaffner. The rest were found by me.

NOTE: Blazel, isn't the true name of this villager. Me and a Vgplayer64 named her that, because she looks like a fusion of Bliss, and Hazel. She's wierd. Also, the second version, is from the section that has the villagers like Tom Nook doing the jobs they usualy do like manage the store, run the Post Office, things like that. Kinda makes you wonder, if she's there, what was she meant to be? Her shirt isn't available to wear, and she never changes it, so she MUST have been meant to do a special job, but what? There is no real evidence of anything. This leads me to believe that they had the villagers done before they had the buildings done. Also, for the record, I can't find her real name. Only Nintendo knows her real name.

|Villager Addresses. [zipc]|

These codes were made by Jasonhaffner and modified by me from 8 bit overwrite to 16 bit overwrite.

Islander Modifier
03289840 0000XXXX

NOTE: I'm not familiar with this code type, so I won't modify it to work as 16 bit. What you need to do, is remove the E0 from a villager's number to use them. That being said, this code doesn't let you use most of the special villagers, but since they cause glitches anyway, you wouldn't want them permanently in your hacked town anyway, right? If someone offers to change the code to 16 bit overwrite for me, or I learn this code type better, it will be updated.

All Villagers Are XX (replace XX with villager)
00000000 8127D839
000000XX 000F0988

Understanding this code:
- 00000000 8127D839 is the specific memory address to point to. GCN memory addresses range from 80000000 to 817FFFFF.
- 00000XX where XX is a single byte that will write to address 8127D839.
-000F0988 is an iterative code which will write XX to 8127D839 + 988*n, n times. Where n equals 000F. These values are all equivalent to Villager Modifier 1 through 15 codes. Villager Modifier 1 is 0327D838 0000XXXX. The first byte 03 states the implied address is a Short (02) and it's in the 81000000 (02+01=03) section of memory addresses. The 8127D838 is 00000001 away from 8127D839. This is because only a single byte needs to be modified to get the villagers to change. Since 8127D838 + 988*n for n=0 to 15 is E0, this byte does not need to be modified.

NOTE: This code does not modify the Islander.

|Player Name Hacking. [name]|

So, you got a town, you got it hacked, but one thing. You want a different name for you player. But after all that work you've done, you're not about to start all over just for a different name, that would be insane. So what can you do? HACK IT!

|What's in a name?. [hwdy]|

I'll say this. You can't make it more than 8 letters. Sorry, it's not my fault. Blame Nintendo. But, at least you can change it to whatever you want.

There's no need to worry about the mail and all that.
Everything that's currently in the Post Office that's headed your way, stuff that's in your pockets, things that are already there, will still have the old name.
but after that, only the new name will come through the line. Delete what you don't want. Outside of it looking like you've been stealing mail, there are no glitches from this.

|Letters and Numbers. [text]|

You'll need these to change your name. I didn't include the special characters, because they're not present in the font that Notepad uses.

Notes:
- 20 is a blank symbol when non-20 bytes proceed it. However, if the remaining catchphrase bytes are 20s, it will truncate the catchphrase at the preceeding symbol. (e.g. so there aren't a bunch of blank spaces before the punctuation at the end of the sentence)
- 7F ends text when this byte is read.
- CD will truncate the current text line and start at the next. Only max of 4 lines of text will display. Any additional lines will cut off the remaining text.

|Name Addresses. [mr.c]|

The first thing you have to know is that to find out what player you are, look at the list of names you see when loading the game.
The first name is Player 1, the second is player 2, and so on. Now, should one of the higher up players move out, that changes things up a bit. Every other player that was underneath of them stays the same player as before. I know it seems odd, but that's the way it is. Things change though, should there be four players again. The list will again be acurate. Player 1 is the first name, and so on.

Here's an example.

Player 1 name change
05266420 aabbccdd
05266424 eeffgghh

the aa bb cc and dd, each represent one letter or number, meaning that there is four letters per line here. Try decrypting this code here, to see what I mean.

Player 1 name is Mario

|Limited Town Name Hacking. [t.n.]|

Yes, you can hack your town name, but, there's a limitation. Of course, this limitation can be used to your advantage as well. Now, you can't actualy change the complete town name, so everyone and almost everything will still call your town it's original name, so all this realy is, is more or less an extra feature for you to have fun with. You know how when you bring up your pockets by pressing Y, it shows your player name and town name? Well, that, is what this lets you modify. It modifies the town name you see in your pockets. For instance, my town name is Animal, and my Player name is Crossing, so it shows up as Animal Crossing in my pockets. You can now do that, but have a different one for each and every player!

Just remember, that the town name is the first on the list, so if you want your pockets to read oh say, Island Hut, you'd have to name your Player Hut, and your Town, Island.

Again, this is a copy and paste of a section from the player name hacking section.

|Thanks. [thnx]|

Parasyte

Major thanks goes to Parasyte, for the creation of GCNrd, with which I could not have found the items, or the addresses required for this guide.
Also, for GCNcrypt, the ONLY Action Replay code encryptor/decryptor for the Gamecube.

Kenobi

Thanks goes to Kenobi for making the GcnrdGUI that I used. This made my work MUCH easier. Thank you.

The Phantom

Thanks goes to The Phantom for finding these items.

084C - White Tulips
084D - Yellow Tulips

Thanks man. Those are some good finds.

Hells Guardian

Thanks goes to Hells Guardian for Animal Crossing's ID number.

Hawkeye

Thanks TONS for letting me use your town to find info. It made this guide MUCH easier to make. Also, thanks for helping me out in other various ways too.

Mp16

Thanks goes to Mp16 for most of the Various Cool Info section. Dude, you've got some skills. And man you work fast! And a MAJOR thanks for all the pictures of acres, not to mention all the help given in the testing and finding of acres!

Visit his site: http://www.freewebs.com/mp16_2006

JasonHaffner

Credit goes to JH for over half of the villager data and the original versions of the villager codes listed.

THE END.
